David - Do you know if this has been finalized. I saw this yesterday from the Corps but there were no signatures? I defer to Jessica on the legal answer to your question - but my sense is that these resolutions have no legally binding effect and EPA would not be obliged to act on it once it is signed.

We were briefed by Army counsel's office yesterday. I think next steps are to schedule a discussion among EPA folks - including you and Jessica - to reconcile some of the factual inconsistencies that we heard yesterday. We're particularly interested in understanding flow characteristics and recreational use of the river.

Thanks

FYI

Raises the interesting question of whether, if an entity petitions EPA to special case, is EPA obliged to act on it?
